a stage play

Set

A room with four walls, 2 windows and a line pointing upwards.

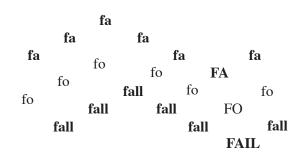

White sheets spread across the floor, as paper blown out of a folder, seemingly used but without any visible ink on them. Unreadable signs spread rhytmically around the space, their meaning ungraspable. The room has been used yesterday, the day before, for many days, but not today, or so it seems.

Cast

Candidate N. The Director

[The audience walks in. Candidate N. warms up the voice]

CANDIDATE N.

*clearing of voice*

to fall

to fall afoul

to fall afoul of something or someone fall flat

fall flat on your face

face fall

fall flat on the floor

- the floor of my flat is very slippery indeed fall flat upon

fall upon on fall abroad of fall about

fall about the place fall about the place (laughing) fall about with laughter

- I heard that humor is a lubricant according to the Romans, wet and moist

[pause]
                              fall all over one oneself
                              fall among (a group?)
                              fall apart
                              fall apart at the seams
                              fall asleep
                                           - that's a nice one I am actually quite tired... but we have just started!
                                            I can never
                                          at the switch
                                         at the wheel
                              fall at someones feet fall at the final hurdle the first hurdle
                                     the last hurdle
                              fall away
                              fall away towards towards something back back on something fall behind in something on something
                                                                – or was it
                                                                  hmmm

rry, can I have an highliter?

I would like to make a mark just to remember not to forget with something Sorry, can I have an highliter?
just draw a line
                                                 maybe a circle
you start with a circle and then an other one and an other one and the page turns into a scrumble RRRRUMBLE
a line will do go straight back to the script please to fall below beneath between things
                                      between_

fall between the cracks

- like gymnasts with a foot on each one half to get their stretch split how painful! where was I between.. between two things between the cracks - Anne Carson says that to translate is to look into the cracks I hope she is always carefull not to slip and fall inthem break a bone twist her ankle how to land softly between two tongues I wonder and which way is up from there? never slides, We will never reach the top if you keep on slipping out stick like sweat on the clothes during summer and the sunscreen STICK to the script, please! handsdownthefallisthenicestoftheseasons!! fall down on the job fall down at one's feet fall flat on your face you said that already - but I like to repeat things they always sound a bit different look a bit different feel a bit different taste a bit different like that drink we had last night remember? we agreed we would forget! it is difficult not to fall into the trap into clutches into decay into depression into dispair into disgrace into disuse fall into bad habits fall into error into sin into the wrong hands to fall into hands - according to the NYT you should aim for the meat not bone when falling 0 0 S Н Н HHН Н Н Н Н

Falling Onto Outstretched Hands

this is not relevant

Falling body + catching hands stick to the script

broken wrists

that's an equation right there

STOP FALLING OFF

off the lorry off a truck off the back of a truck the cabbage truck

- why cabbages I wonder cabbages roll better turn better slide better and can go on and on and on falling down the slope

uuuhhh that's a slippery slope are you sure we want to take it?

we are following the map

[pause]

so where did they go?

who

the cabbages

they fell off the map off the radar off the turnip track weren't they cabbages a minute ago stick to the script, please!

fall on one's feet

fall on one's knees

fall on one's neck aiaiai fall on deaf ears

on hard times

fall on a stony ground

a river with slippery pebbles dangerous

precarious

stay in your line!

precarious is a very used word in Italy, everything is so precarious there jobs, bridges tilted towers

Like a text formatted in Italic (coincidence?) with all the characters balancing on their toes.

First-person quotes make me uneasy so full of I, single lines tilted forward standing all alone at the mercy of the weather no one there to catch them on the verge of blank space.

[ai]

[ai]

[ai][ai][ai][ai][ai]

did you hurt yourself?

It's just the echo of the self Can I tell you a secret now?

shortly, we are running out of space I mean time here when I feel adventurous I open indesign and I change the inclination of a font 30degrees 40degrees 50 degrees Magnessuur

And then the I becomes a slash becomes a dash in the position and in SPLASH!!!!!

this was a stunning performance thank you!

now go back to your lines

*looking at the audience*

I am falling out of favour of the director I can tell *shouting*

TO THE SCRIPT!

everything feels so heavy here the fall of the market the fall of wall street the bottom falls out of one's world drops out falls out of over / about / in wait!

no, it isn't

I

ΙΙ

and why didn't you include it is falling in love in the script?

it's complicated hmmmm

was it a crush

was it reciprocated

was it intentional

did you fall out of it

Ι

was it heavy on you Ι

did it bring you down did it feel like a stone in your chest or like butterflies in your stomach IIIIII growling inside those are loud when flapping wings

I guess it was painful?

so you didn't control the fall it was a crush

you didn't place the pads correctty they weren't soft enough maybe you didn't follow the instructions properly

I crushed on the pads and the pads crushed under me the foam escaped the PVC and spreaded in all directions such a slimy landing zone!

which sound did it make?

hmmmm..I can not remember slipped out of memory?

[silence]

is a surface

a pad is a mat

a mat surfacea silky surfacea shiny surfacea slippery surface like that glaze on the porcelain which is glass at the end and how did it end?

[pause]

things will fall into place don't worry

I fell head over hills

in free fall a falling out just land on your feet and aim for the meat, not for the bone remember?

1. stay lose
2. bend your legs
3. roll as you fall
4. spread out the impact

It's easy to say!

I am just trying to help

[pause]

the sky is falling

don't be so dramatic now

I am reading the script ah!

*whispering looking at the audience* the bigger they are the harder they fall pardon?

it's still in the script!

the plot is escaping!

how slippery

REBELLIOUS!

the bread always falls on the buttered side does the 3 seconds rule apply in metaphors?

and who is going to clean?

a greasy floor to slide on a grease pole to climb on with a ham at it's top like an apostroph a totem in village fairs l'albero della cuccagna, we call it dansling

people climb solo to reach its top and what is the prize?

the pride is the prize

I thought was the ham we are losing the script again!

it sucks anyway

I said you should stick which stick?

to keep the play up

I am losing the grip!

just let your weight go

BONE

like a bone bone dry piece of porcelain to be handled with care

I would never let go

it might as well slip

I'm keeping it tight

and fall on the floor

I won't let it go

then crack into pieces

I'm holding it tight or lay on the ground

My grip is still strong and relax for a while it's time to let go

I have something to tell you

[silence]

my hands keeps on cramping and to grip hurts a lot you are lacking magnesium but to slip scares me more potassium/bananas?

if you can peel them for me to fall is a motion so I started to look at tutorials downward is a direction on how to fall safely and none of them are emotions and let go of the fear

Climbers have great tips!

[pause]

I think it's your turn and what should I say now

"the director goes on with the list"

- this is what'the script says but I can not remember
